

Jeannie DeMaio
Grants Administrator and Office Manager
Long Island Community Foundation

Jeannie DeMaio is a life-long Long Islander. She has over thirty years of corporate and not-for-profit experience, specializing in program administration.

Jeannie's enthusiasm and commitment to community service was cultivated during her career with LILCO/KeySpan. Supporting a senior executive who managed the both the KeySpan Foundation and Environmental & Community Affairs, she got involved with many local organizations and various community improvement projects. Elected to the KeySpan Employees Association's Board of Directors, Jeannie continued to create new opportunities for volunteerism within the company. Jeannie coordinated the company blood drive program and first aid training, along with many other programs during her tenure. Always seeking ways to help protect the environment, she implemented a corporate cell phone donation program and coordinated several beach and park clean-up projects.

Jeanne left KeySpan to pursue a career in the not-for-profit community. She provided her administrative, grant writing and event planning skills to several local organizations, including the Nature Conservancy of Long Island, the Riverhead Foundation for Marine Research, and the Long Island Philharmonic.

She is delighted to be the newest addition to the Long Island Community Foundation.
