

Sol Marie Alfonso-Jones
Senior Program Officer
Long Island Community Foundation

Sol Marie has been with Long Island Community Foundation (LICF) since Spring of 2009. As senior program officer, she manages the Foundation's competitive grantmaking programs in the areas of Education, Environment, and Youth Development. She also spearheads LICF's Community Development programs, including its affordable and fair housing initiative on Long Island.

Sol Marie has more than 23 years' experience in nonprofit management, community building, program development and evaluation. Prior to LICF she worked at Sustainable Long Island where she directed the organization's community revitalization and brownfield redevelopment programs. She also served as director of the Fight for Families Coalition, an alliance of health and human service, community-based agencies working to enhance service delivery systems in Nassau County. Before her employ on Long Island, Sol Marie spent 17 years working in New York City: 12 years overseeing academic enrichment and college preparation programs at Sponsors for Educational Opportunity and five years as a community liaison in Governor Mario Cuomo's Office of Hispanic Affairs.

Sol Marie is a member of NYS Health Foundation Community Advisory Committee which reports to NYS Health's President and CEO, and serves to broaden community input and perspectives on the development and implementation of activities related to NYS Health's strategic priorities. She also is a advisory member of the Regional Planning Association's fourth regional plan, a long vision for the New York, New Jersey, Connecticut region's shared prosperity, health and livability, resiliency, and good governance.

A graduate of the University of Rochester, Sol Marie received a B.A. in 1987. Her professional certifications include the Columbia Business School's Non-Profit Management Program and the American Express Non-Profit Executives Leadership Academy. She is a member of the Energeia Partnership's class of 2011, a leadership academy dedicated to identifying and addressing complex and multi-dimensional issues challenging the Long Island region.